

Andrew Holley

Atlanta-based recording artist Andrew Holley has quickly garnered a reputation for his catchy pop songwriting, soulful delivery, and genre-defying live performances with Holley's guitar work at the gravitational center.

More than 15 years after he'd walked away from a budding singer-songwriter career, Andrew pulled his guitar out of the case in 2024 and opened up his songs to the world again. Following a sold-out "Unretirement Party" at Atlanta's iconic Eddie's Attic, Holley's debut EP 'Nothing Lasts Forever' immediately earned the guitar slinger a deal with SONABlast! Records in early 2025.

As the demand for their contagious live performances hit the roof, the newly solidified Andrew Holley Band began putting their uniquely-Atlantan, soulful touches on Andrew's next batch of songs for their first joint project. Recorded live at 800 East Studios in Atlanta and anticipated to release Spring 2026, Andrew's sophomore record 'Georgia Grown' puts the range of his rhythm guitar playing on full display against their eclectic yet cohesive backdrop of Blues, Soul, Pop, Funk, and Southern Rock and Roll.

From 400-cap rooms in his city to 70,000 at a sold out Mercedes Benz Stadium to winning over sold out theaters across the South supporting Charlie Starr, Andrew Holley is pre-built to deliver for every moment of his presently meteoric rise.
